

Lawyer: I call Suspect #2 to the stand.

Can you explain to the jury why your handwriting matches the list found near the victim?

Suspect #2: Yes, I wrote that list during our last CSI Club meeting to find some more books to take home. I must have dropped it.

Lawyer: Did you take any books home?

Suspect #2: Yes.

Lawyer: Can you give me the titles?

Suspect #2: Crime and Detection, Traces, Crime Scene Science Fair Projects.

Lawyer: So how did you find these books if you lost your list?

Suspect #2: I typed CSI into the computer and the book titles came up.

Lawyer: OK, Suspect #2, you're excused from the stand.

Ladies and gentlemen of the jury: You have just heard the Case of the Murdered Librarian. You must decide the merits of the suspects' testimony and decide who is guilty and who is innocent. Who murdered Mr. Montgomery? You decide!

(Let the jury members talk and re-examine the evidence if needed. When a jury comes to a decision:)

Web Extra 6.15: Solve the Murder

From After-School Clubs for Kids by Lisa M. Shaia (Chicago: American Library Association, 2014). Copyright 2014 by Lisa M. Shaia.